Q: Why is the cost of goods sold account credited when the inventory account is debited?
A: This entry is an adjusting entry that is recorded at the end of each period. It is used to adjust the cost of goods sold account and the inventory account. The cost of goods sold account is debited for the amount of the goods sold during the period, and the inventory account is credited for the same amount. This entry ensures that the cost of goods sold account and the inventory account are in balance and that the cost of goods sold account is properly adjusted for the goods sold during the period.

Note: this is the original "dead elephant" post from back in 2006. My thinking about CMDB has matured since then. Please see the articles (and book) in the sidebar of this article for a more complete picture of how I now see CMDB, and a much wider range of ideas why CMDB or CMS is - for most organisations - a bad idea.
