i-Motif DNA: Structure, stability and targeting with ligands

DNA is a long polymer made from repeating units called nucleotides. The structure of DNA is dynamic along its length, being capable of coiling into tight loops and other shapes. In all species it is composed of two helical chains, bound to each other by hydrogen bonds. Both chains are coiled around the same axis, and have the same pitch of 34 Å (3.4 nanometres).

Representation of DNA binding sites. A collection of DNA binding sites, typically referred to as a DNA binding motif, can be represented by a consensus sequence. This representation has the advantage of being compact, but at the expense of disregarding a substantial amount of information. A more accurate way of representing binding sites is through Position Specific Frequency Matrices (PSFM).

Main Text Introduction. The development of recombinant DNA technology in the 1970s marked the beginning of a new era for biology. For the first time, molecular biologists gained the ability to manipulate DNA molecules, making it possible to study genes and harness them to develop novel medicine and biotechnology.

CRISPR/Cas9 for advanced DNA and RNA editing

The Y chromosome (Y-DNA) is a DNA structure found in the nucleus of a male cell. Humans have 23 pairs of Chromosomes, 22 pair of autosomes and one pair of sex chromosomes, XX for females and XY for males. The Y chromosome is passed on without recombination by a father to his sons. SNP. A SNP (Single-nucleotide polymorphism) happens when a single place in the genome sequence is altered during ...

Carbohydrate depletion in endurance sports leads to the "hitting the wall" phenomenon, which is mitigated through sports training. Fan et al. show that muscle PPAR δ actively suppresses glucose catabolism. Glucose sparing by PPAR δ delays the onset of hypoglycemia and extends running time by ≈ 100 min in agonist-treated mice.
