Is your teen always saying that he hates school? Does he complain about his teachers and classmates, and about how "useless" the lessons are? Or maybe he complains that the people in school are "fake", and that it's hard to make friends? If so, as a parent you probably feel concerned and frustrated. You want to help your teen, but whatever you've tried so far hasn't worked.

Change is the end result of all true learning. Change involves three things: First, dissatisfaction with self -- a felt void or need; second, a decision to change to fill the void or need; and third, a conscious dedication to the process of growth and change -- the willful act of making the change, doing something.

1. Introduction. Almost half a century ago, David Ausubel suggested that the most important factor influencing learning is what the learner already knows, that teachers should ascertain this, and teach accordingly (Ausubel, 1968). At the time, and perhaps even now, such a prescription might seem simple, but students do not learn what they are taught.
